Personal Finance Manager [Updated]

Here are some new features from Zoho Docs 1.1 Inbox ;;;... The Inbox is an evolution of the Zoho Notes that offers you a new way to access and organize your Zoho Docs. It is a handy tool that lets you easily find information you want, easier manage and keep in touch with your files and ideas. You can synchronize your Inbox with Zoho Docs and all its content is accessible from all Zoho services (Zoho Books, Zoho CRM, Zoho Inbox and Zoho Sites). You can use it in a mobile way, either on your computer or on your smartphone. You can also access your Inbox from a dedicated app on your smartphone. The Inbox app for Android (available on Google Play) is here to help you be more productive with your Zoho Docs. Inbox lets you manage all the data stored in your Zoho Docs with ease, organize them into folders and labels (with a visual interface), create, attach, assign and manage comments, and share your work with others. Inbox is an ideal solution to help you organize your Zoho Docs easily. The first step to start using the Inbox: 1. Connect your Zoho Account with Inbox. To connect your Zoho Docs with Inbox, go to "Settings", "Your Account" and "Inbox", then you need to link your Zoho Docs account with your Inbox account. If you do not have an Inbox account, you will be prompted to create one. It is important to note that Inbox can only be used from a Zoho Docs account. Once the account is linked with Inbox, you can synchronize the folder and the data between the two applications. The second step to start using the Inbox: 1. Choose the app to use. You can use the Inbox either on your computer or on your smartphone. In the app, you will be able to see all the files and folders stored in your Zoho Docs account. You can open them on the computer using your normal file manager or on your smartphone using a dedicated app. Once you choose a folder, you can access the data inside the selected folder. For example, if you want to edit the data in a file, you can view the file, create a new note or edit the data in it

What's New In?

Personal Finance Manager (PFM) is a budgeting tool designed to assist individuals, families, and small business owners in developing a budget and regulating their income and spending to maintain financial stability. Personal Finance Manager allows you to create estimated annual budgets, track income and expenses, and compute your net worth. Calculators are provided for amortizing loans, comparing interest rates, and creating savings plans. View summaries to compare monthly and annual budget projections vs. actual income and expenses via tables and charts. Personal Finance Manager is a user-friendly program that will help you to maintain control over your financial world. Create budgets, track income and expenses, manage savings and debts, and view results with bar and pie charts. Create as many accounts as you need (checking, savings, credit, etc.) Each account can have many different (user-defined) transaction types to match cash flows, such as checks, direct deposit, interest, and e-bills. Simply enter your monthly salary on the estimated budget form and the program will calculate a sample budget for you! From there, you can fine-tune the budget by using the guideline budget tool to allocate your income by percentage to various categories. Enter transactions into the program using the accounts, transaction types, categories, and subcategories you created. Transactions can then be viewed and sorted by date, account, category, or amount. Split single transactions into multiple components (useful for itemizing paycheck items such as gross salary and taxes). Create recurring transactions for regular payments to minimize typing and keep tabs on upcoming expenditures. Use the assets and liabilities page to calculate your net worth. Use the default lists or create your own unique asset and liability names. Designate your income to savings goals you set and/or expense categories. You can set up allocation amounts for any expense category so that each income transaction will automatically distribute a percentage of the total amount among those categories. The rest you can allocate towards your savings goals. Monitor your income and spending habits and compare them regularly to the budgets you create. This information can be viewed as tables, bar charts, and pie charts. You will be able to detect categories of excess spending and take corrective measures to stay within your budget guidelines. Save your data to text or csv (comma-delimited) files that can be used to import your data into other applications (such as Microsoft Excel) or to print the records. All of your financial data is stored in a password-protected database to keep your sensitive information secure. Multiple users can create their own login id's and passwords to use the program independently. Automatic database backups are performed according to preferred frequency. Customize your own accounts, transaction types, and categories. Password protected database. Split and recurring transactions
